Johnson calls for full-time mayor; No such thing as part-time :Longo

Before Waveland Council

by EDGAR PEREZ
Waveland Alderman Charles Johnson triggered a heated discussion on the pros and cons of the need for a full-time mayor or city manager for that city at its mid-month council meeting Wednesday.

Johnson's proposal to take the issue to the city's voters in the next election apparently took his fellow aldermen and part-time Mayor John Longo Jr. by surprise.
Johnson found an ally at the beginning of the discussion in Alderman Dan Campion who favored the idea of a full-time city engineer.
But before the matter died down Johnson stood alone, with colleagues, the mayor, City Clerk Barbara Rappold and City Attorney Lucien Gex all expressing strong sentiments against changing Waveland's form of government any time in the near future.

"Barbara is overloaded with work—she functions as mayor and clerk," Johnson stated.
"It's time to consider a full-time mayor or city manager," Johnson said, adding, "The city is big enough—with an election coming up—for us to bring a proposal to the people."
Johnson said, however, a vote of the people would not be necessary to have a full-time mayor. He cited a 1976 case in Sheldon, a town of 2,900 people, in which it was held by the courts that a simple majority of the aldermen could decide the matter.

But Gex said all the aldermen would be doing is raising the mayor's salary. Longo now draws some $300 from the city.
"You could raise his salary to $25,000 and you still couldn't force him to sit in City Hall for eight hours a day," Gex stated.
Longo noted he keeps regular hours at the City Hall on Saturdays, and makes himself available to his constituency at all hours of the day and night.
"I make all the business meetings involving the city—I definitely can't make every social function," Longo stated.
"I worry about the finances of this city as though they were my own," the mayor added as he defended the efficiency of his part-time operation of the city government.

"Long before City Hall opens in the morning, I'm on the job, available to the people and on the radio," the mayor pointed out.
"The operation of this city is such big business with millions of dollars in sewer and water plants, and with so much going on in this city, I don't see how it can be handled part-time," said Campion early on in the discussion.
"I think—and have for a long time—that a city of our size with the money we are going after under federal and state programs requires a full-time mayor or city manager," Campion stated.

Program landmark reached

The three space shuttle main engines fired for the first time on Friday in a one second captive test shoot at NASA-NSTL.
The firing represented a major landmark in the space shuttle program and came on the eve of an announcement by Congressman Trent Lott confirming a $4.4 billion award to NASA by the House Rules Committee. The bill contains at least $5 million for NSTL.
Under terms of the legislation, NSTL is to receive almost $3.5 million from the research and program management category as well as funds from the research and development category.

The countdown started at 8 a.m. and successfully completed at 11:34 a.m. with all engines reaching simultaneous ignition.
The proposed 2.35 second burn, at less than full rated power, was terminated after one second due to a temperature anomaly in the high pressure duel turbo-pump.
Data from the firing is now being analyzed to determine the cause of the temperature flux as well as to evaluate whether or not all other test objectives were realized.
Modifications to the erring components will now be undertaken at NSTL as NASA engineers don their hard hat in completion of their research and development role. Further, full cluster firings will begin on completion of the modifications.

The main propulsion test article fired Friday includes the three Rocketdyne main engines, an orbiter simulator built by Rockwell, and a flight configured external tank assembled by the Martin Marietta Co. at Michoud.
The three main engines produce a 370,000 pound thrust each when fired at sea level, a thrust augmented by the 2.9 million pounds put out by the solid rocket fuel boosters. The combination will put the space shuttle into orbit to carry out its assigned tasks before returning to earth for refurbishment and re use.

The funding bill, which may well provide funds to further research and development activities at NSTL, is also supplying considerable input into the base's construction category efforts.
Items scheduled for the budget include: modifications to building heating, ventilating, and air conditioning system, $450,000; rehabilitation of high temperature hot

Bay auto accident victim develops new way of life; paralysis gives 'delinquent' a change in direction

The Burge family, Peggy, Michele and Doug

by EDGAR PEREZ
Like a person blinded whose neglected sense of hearing is strengthened to compensate for the loss of sight, once dormant love and faith are now the strong elements in the life of a young Bay St. Louis man since he lost the use of all four limbs four years ago.
And a creative imagination he never knew he had is fast developing as he becomes an accomplished artist by holding brush and pen in his teeth.
"I had never stopped to smell a rose before I broke my neck," says William Douglas (Doug) Burge, 26, of 310 Railroad Avenue.
Burge lives with his wife, the former Peggy Moran of Pass Christian, and their daughter Michele, 5, in the Railroad Avenue home of his mother, Eura Lee Burge.
"We were divorced when the accident happened," Burge recalls. "She was living in Florida and came back to me when she heard about it."
"I asked her not to; she persisted, and now I'm glad she did," he tells the visitors as he grins in Peggy's direction from his motorized wheel chair.
"God sent her back, and I thank him for her every night."
"It's kind of hard to believe anyone would stick with someone through all this," he said, adding, "We're better friends now than we were before when we were living together and working separate jobs."
The couple are constant companions, with Burge requiring 24-hour care even though the independent abilities he has developed in spite of total paralysis from the neck down are quite remarkable.
Peggy, daughter of Eldon Moran and Mrs. Jerry Garriga, devotes herself to Doug full-time.
"There's just no way for me to go off to work," Peggy points out.
Doug spent two years in rehabilitation where "they insisted we learn to feed ourselves."
But in lieu of facing a three-times-a-day ordeal with more food winding up on the floor than where he's aiming it, or spilled coffee burning a leg which can't feel the pain, Doug is eternally grateful for Peggy's attentions at mealtime.

With his left arm suspended in a movable sling, Doug directs the hand and arm to do his bidding through a minimum of movement left in his shoulder—movement thus transferred to the hand which operates the control switch of his electric wheelchair.
Another labor of love lightening the young man's burden comes from Doug's working mother who has relieved the couple of the worry of rent and utilities.
"I rely on God for my strength," Doug states in revealing an unshakable faith that "things will work out whether I ever get up or not."
But apparently forever to be included in the "working out of things" is the maybe dim but never extinguished hope for "the miracle."
"Doctors told my friends and relatives I wouldn't live—but I lived," Doug recalls of his days in Gulfport Memorial Hospital following the fateful one-car crash on Gulfport's 28th Street in April of 1974.
"I didn't think much about God before, but I had some kind of revelation while I was in that Gulfport hospital—that God would take care of me," Burge explains.
"Then the doctors told them I would be paralyzed and kept telling me I would be up in a couple of months."
"But the reality of it all came to me when I went to the rehabilitation center in Little Rock," Burge clearly recalls.
"I found myself in 'occupational therapy' where they teach you to use the movement you've got, as opposed to 'physical therapy' where you work to recover movement you've lost."
"But I never met anyone in the rehabilitation center who was paralyzed who really gave in—somewhere in the back of the mind of every one of them is that spark of hope which says 'Some day some kind of miracle is going to happen.'"

"I have so much to be thankful for—after all, there are stroke patients who can't talk, and there are victims of paralysis who live in a coma, that's how bad it could have been," the valiant young man continues.
"I'm a better human being since I broke my neck, and I'm happy to be alive," he reveals.
He feels himself to already be the beneficiary of more than one miracle—he is alive and cheerful, continues to marvel at the devotion of his pretty young wife, and possesses a startling peace of mind he credits to a spiritual development which began with his fight to recover from the traumatic injuries suffered in the auto crash.
"From the time I was 12-years-old right through the night of the accident, my life was one big rush, one big fight, or brawl after another, a fast hustle to nowhere," Burge reminisces.
"I was a juvenile delinquent when I was 12, and my sports were smoking and drinking."
He is an avid sports fan now, with golf's Jack Nicholas being the sport world's man of the hour as far as he's concerned.
"Nicholas is the champion of champions—none of the others do what they do as well as he does his thing. Others may be on top one week and you probably won't hear of them again for weeks or months—Nicholas is always there," Burge stated.
"Until recently, television, radio and chewing gum were my only recreation—I had to quit smoking because it was causing me more problems than I could contend with," Burge revealed.
His new-found diversion is drawing, with his talents in a little more than a month already developed into production of multi-colored works of art.
Burge said he has received considerable encouragement and help from friends at the Bay St. Louis First

"That's certainly not the most economical way to travel; but if that's what you want, if you are looking for someone to sit here eight hours a day, it's certainly not going to be me," Longo remarked.

Ms. Rappold said, "I take care of the little things; the mayor attends all of the business meetings, and we have a good crew, we get a lot of help here at City Hall."

Eddie Favre named chief BPD Auxiliary

Eddie Favre was elected chief of the Bay St. Louis Auxiliary Police Department on Friday at the group's second reorganization meeting.

Others elected were: Dennis Keel, assistant chief, Ralph Henton, administrative officer, Alphonse Sheppard, training officer.

Mayor Larry Bennett and Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams were guests at the community.

All persons between the ages 18 and 55, interested in volunteering time to the community, are invited to attend the group's next meeting, 7 p.m., Monday, May 8, or contact Chief Favre or the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Young Davis celebrates 6th birthday

Marc Antony Davis, 9, son of Mrs. and Mrs. John Gibson, celebrated his birthday recently at a dinner staged by his parents in Gulfport.

Present with him were his sisters, Kimberly, 7, and Tiphanni, 4, and brother, Golden, 5 months.

On return from Gulfport the group had a second party at the home of Mr. Anthony's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Gibson of Lakeshore Road.

Waiting there for the celebrant were gifts from his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey of San Antonio, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Coddington of County Mayo, Ireland.

Five-run inning sends Rocks to tournament play-off

A fifth inning tote of five runs rolled the Rock-a-chaws out front of Notre Dame 12-9, Thursday in the opening contest in the fourth annual St. Stanislaus spring tournament.

The Rock-a-chaws were down, 8-3, after three innings, but a three run rally in the fourth coupled with the five-run fifth helped St. Stanislaus break ahead.

Scott Cox, a sophomore left-hander, picked up the win, with Todd Edwards going two-thirds of an inning and Kerry Geroux taking two-thirds.

Greg Hammer slugged three hits in four rounds at bat and scored three runs. Edwards was two-for-four and had three RBI's for Stanislaus.

The two-day tourney featured a Saturday contest between East Central and d'Iberville before the championship game, held at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Dairy Field Day is at Newton

A dairy field day is planned for 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Friday, April 28, at Coastal Plain Branch Experiment Station, Highway 80 East, Newton, sponsored by Mississippi State University.

Subjects to be covered include: free stall structures, current forage research study (including continuous corn silage, continuous sorghum silage, annual grazing and hay winter annual grazing and corn silage), calf raising practices, dairy waste disposal, reproductive studies and practices, questions and answers.

decorations," Longo interjected.

"If I have to fly to Washington on city business tomorrow, that's what I'm going to do," Longo stated, adding he would make the trip even if his own business (a frozen food distributorship) suffered because of it.

"My point is something good in a small portion is better than something not so good all day long," Longo continued.

"We can safely say nobody in city government here is in it for the money. I'm going to run again because another term will give me twenty years in city hall, and I'm proud of that," Longo went on.

"We can cite how much progress Waveland is making, but how much more could be done if we made some changes," Johnson argued.

"There are people in Bay St. Louis who are very envious of the progress we are making here in Waveland and they have had a full-time mayor for 30 years," the city attorney remarked.

"That's a bad example for comparison—Bay St. Louis; take a look at Picayune or Long Beach and what they have done in the past ten years," Johnson cracked as he skillfully fueled the fires of public debate.

Longo accused Johnson of being "a long-time negative voice on the Board of Aldermen, particularly in the matter of approving new subdivisions."

Johnson defended his position in lately abstaining from development votes, pointing out he frequently is financially involved in developments which are brought up for approval by the board.

When the discussion turned to the population of Waveland—cited at 3,406 by a 1975 interim census—Campion said the city is "not nearly ready to have a full-time manager."

engineer or manager. Taking advantage of a lull in the proceedings about 11 p.m., the part-time mayor suggested the 7:30 p.m. meeting be adjourned. His parting shot was: "There's no such thing here as a part-time mayor—in a small city they'll find you no matter what time it is."

High blood pressure cited major problem to blacks

One in four blacks has high blood pressure — a disease which is one of the most significant causes of sickness, disability, and death in this country and in our community. High blood pressure is a threat to all Americans but it occurs more often in blacks than whites, according to Dr. T. D. Lampton, Heart Association Board Member and Chairman of the May 1978 Mississippi High Blood Pressure Month.

High blood pressure is a major factor in occurrences of heart disease, stroke, hardening of the arteries and kidney failure. More likely to have high blood pressure, blacks are also more likely to suffer these serious consequences at an earlier age as a result of high blood pressure.

No one knows why blacks get high blood pressure more often than whites. Some researchers have noted that many blacks live in cities and that the stress of city living may lead to high blood pressure, although blacks in the Bahamas and West Indies have a high incidence of high blood pressure. Others link high blood pressure to the amount of salt a person eats and point out the high salt content in a normal black diet. Whatever the cause, high blood pressure is now recognized as major killer of Americans and the major killer of black Americans.

What is sad and senseless about this fact, say doctors associated with the National High Blood Pressure Education Program, is that high blood pressure can be controlled. Experts such as Dr. Marvin Moser, Senior Medical Consultant to the program, note that medicines that wash the salt out of the body, other drugs, or modest diet restrictions can adequately control high blood pressure if people get and stay on treatment. But only about 20 percent of the people with high blood pressure are getting adequate treatment. Of the probable three million blacks in this country who have high blood pressure, less than 600,000, says Dr. Moser, are really doing something to prevent their unnecessarily early death.

The American Heart Association — Mississippi Affiliate urges that everyone, including children, have their blood pressure checked during High Blood Pressure Month.

They say that you can look and feel fine and still have high blood pressure. They especially urge people who know they have high blood pressure to stay on treatment or get back on treatment if they have stopped. If people find out about high blood pressure early and get to a doctor or clinic for regular treatment, a major health problem in our community can be controlled.

Corps asks public input on 'Bayou Caddy' channel

Bayou Caddy the southwest end of Hancock County's seawall, came into focus again this week with the announcement by the Corps of Engineers of a public meeting, 7 p.m., May 18, in the Coast Electric Power Association Auditorium, for the purpose of receiving public input in regard to proposed channel extensions.

Col. Charlie L. Blalock, District Engineer, out of Mobile, said in a notice dated April 18, that all interested individuals, agencies, and organizations, are invited to be present or represented at the meeting and that everyone will be given an opportunity to express his views pertinent to the study.

The studies, detailed project planning, to comply with the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), will include preparation of an environmental impact statement (EIS).

For accuracy of the hearing record, Col. Blalock has requested that persons having important facts or statements relevant to the proposed project submit them in writing. Such statements may be handed to the meeting chairman or mailed to the Mobile District prior to June 10. Mailed statements should indicate they are in response to this announcement and should be sent to Department of the Army, Corps of Engineers, Mobile District, P.O. Box 2288, Mobile, Ala. 36628.

Bayou Caddy's marina, recognized as being of inadequate size to capably provide for the wants of the local fishing fleet, was recently readvertised by the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, under whose auspices the bayou facility is operated, in an attempt to find a lessee willing to reopen the concession for a one year tenure.

Bids previously received by the commission either did not offer sufficient return or sought a longer operating contract.

The port commission has expressed reluctance to extend the contract's run due to the proposed dredging, an act they feel will open a larger area for development, resulting in their possibly constructing a much enlarged marina that will include fuel and ice availability to all users.

The proposed plan calls for construction of an anchorage basin about 200 feet wide, 1,380 feet long, and eight feet deep, located approximately 2000 feet inside the bayou on its north side. All material excavated from the basin would be contained in an upland, diked disposal area.

"The considered improvements would reduce present vessel congestion and related delays and damages," Blalock announced.

A draft of the environmental study will be filed with the Environmental Protection Agency and furnished to the federal, state, and local authorities, and to the general public for their review and comments.

Persons, or groups, requiring a copy of the draft environmental statement can obtain a copy by writing to the Corps in Mobile, or telephoning 1-205-690-2728.

The Corps currently maintains an eight by 100 foot entrance channel to Bayou Caddy extending from the eight

Dear Sir:
Sometimes people are slow getting around to thanking others for the good they do.

Please accept, on behalf of the Board of Directors and the staff of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, our sincere thanks for the coverage you have given over the years. We especially appreciate the article that appeared in Sunday's Echo, April 16, entitled "Opinion - Ellis Cuevas."

Dear Sir:
At last, for the first time in many decades America may be proud of having a President who is a statesman. And Legislators who think and have the interests of their Fellow-Americans at heart. The late President Dwight Eisenhower recognized the Panamanian flag flown in the Canal Zone alongside ours.

"Circuit Court is the court where all felon cases and some misdemeanor cases are tried and resolved, and where the more extensive civil litigation occurs.

"I believe that one who aspires to the office of Circuit Judge should have been a frequent participant as an advocate in that Court. This I have done," Rose said.

Baptist Church where he and his family are members.

"Mr. Little from the church built this easel," he notes, adding, "Brother Barber (Reverend Nathan Barber, pastor of the First Baptist Church) has made a big difference in my life."

"He can't do enough and he is always there when we need him," Burge explained.

Asked about selling his drawings, Burge said he doesn't think he has reached that level of development as an artist as yet.

"I'd love to get money for it but I'm shy about that—I'm always asking myself is it good enough?"

"I want somebody to appreciate my work because it has artistic merit, period. I don't want my work to be liked because it was done with a pen in my teeth," the already temperamental artist stated.

Burge was a longshoreman on the Gulfport docks when the accident happened, just long enough to be covered by union insurance.

Some $90,000 in medical bills were taken care of by the union, Burge noted.

The family currently supports itself on Social Security payments. "They amount to just enough each month to make me ineligible for any food stamps or welfare funds," Burge complained.

"We have to lay out $150 every month for medicines I have to have," he pointed out.

In addition to the medicine, he requires expensive support items like $17 per pair hose, and corsets which help him to breathe and sit up.

"I have to breathe with my stomach since my diaphragm is paralyzed also," he pointed out.

Burge said his internal organs function normally on their autonomic nervous system. His extremities which function on the sympathetic nervous system are what is affected by the injury.

"It was two years before I could come home to stay," Burge said in recounting the two months he was in Gulfport Memorial, nine months in Hancock General, the remainder of the time back and forth from the rehabilitation center in Hot Springs.

The State of Mississippi financed his stay at the rehab center, Burge noted.

If he ever finds himself in a better financial position, Burge hopes to get a van with hydraulic lift so he can attend school.

That dream may not be too far in the future if he continues to progress at the rate of his rapid beginning as an artist.

CLIPPER SHIP

BY THOMAS P. LEWIS

Book Review

by
Ellen Yor

Bay St. Louis

"Dooda Dooda Day. Around Cape Horn to Frisco Bay," sing the sailors of the Rainbird clipper ship three days out from New York on its way to San Francisco. Captain Murdock is at the helm with his wife and children, Jamie and Meg. There is so much to do and see: schools of dolphins, the parrot that sits on the shoulder of one of the sailors, and in the hold wonderful cargo - tools, stoves, and weather vanes, bushels of grain, bolts of cloth - to explore. When they are not doing their lessons or playing hide-and-seek, Meg and Jamie climb the rigging to peer out at the blue distances through Jamie's telescope.

But it is not always calm and easy aboard the Rainbird. During a dangerous storm, a man falls overboard, and the ship must turn around to rescue him. And when they pass around Cape Horn, with its treacherous blizzards and huge icebergs, Captain Murdock falls ill, and Mrs. Murdock, who has spent so many evenings in her cabin figuring their course, takes over the ship and brings it safely up the coast of South America into San Francisco Bay. How excited Meg and Jamie are to be there at last, and what a wonderful welcome the Rainbird - and her two captains - receive!

Based on tales of the clipper ship voyages of the 1850's, and magnificently illustrated with Joan Sandin's detailed and dramatic portraits of the Rainbird and life aboard it, "Clipper Ship" captures the adventure and romance of the great sailing ships.

Thomas P. Lewis, author of "Hill of Fire" and "The Dragon Kite," lives in White Plains, N.Y. with his wife and three children. Joan Sandin, a native of Tucson who now lives in Sweden with her husband and son, also illustrated "Hill of Fire," among others.

EASY OUT - Rusty Necase, playing first base for the Pirates, wraps glove around errant ball for easy out in closing innings of game against Long Beach.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

SEED CROPS

Many Mississippi farmers will save their rice, soybean and cotton seed for planting next year's crops. Getting off to a good, clean start is a big part of winning the battle in seed production.

Decide on the location of seed production fields before planting. Selecting fields fairly clean or free of troublesome weeds to the crops you want to plant. Plant seed that are high quality and free of weed seeds to get a good stand of fast-growing plants and reduce production problems. Also follow the best weed control program available in your seed field.

FERTILIZING

Use the proper amounts of fertilizer to get the most production from your vegetable plants. Using too much fertilizer or fertilizing in the wrong place can kill plants. To prevent this, keep granular away from seeds and the roots of newly set transplants. For more information on garden planting and care, ask your county Extension agent for a copy of the 1978 gardening tabloid.

LIME LAWNS AND GARDENS

We hear a lot about the need for lime in crop and forage production. However, lime is also important in growing lawns and gardens. Most soils in Mississippi are acid and need lime to make them more productive; whether they are producing row crops or lawn grasses.

You can find out if your garden or lawn needs lime by taking a soil sample. For full details on taking soil samples and other lawn and garden practices, contact your county agent or Extension home economist.

LEFTOVER PESTICIDES

Insecticides exposed to freezing temperatures during the past winter may not be suitable for use this year. Freezing will cause the active ingredients in many insecticides to come out of solution and settle to the bottom of the drum. Using these insecticides on crops can result in crop damage and no control of harmful insects.

If you stored drums of insecticides in unheated areas during the winter, check each drum to be sure the active ingredients have not settled.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER & CROP REPORT

WEEK ENDING:

April 15, 1978

RELEASED:

April 17, 1978

WEATHER SUMMARY

After about two and a half weeks of almost no precipitation, most of the state got a good soaking during the middle of the last week. The greatest 24-hour rainfall reported was 2.35 inches on the 12th at Merrill in George County. It was a generally mild week with average temperatures within a few degrees of normal at most places. Reported extremes ranged from 90 degrees at Columbus and Charleston early in the week to 33 degrees at Tupelo on the 14th. The weekend was partly cloudy and mild with no rain.

CROP SUMMARY

A welcome rain early in the week settled seedbeds and improved soil moisture conditions. Toward the end of the week farmers were back in the fields with land preparation the main activity. Soil moisture supplies were adequate. An average of 2.9 days was suitable for fieldwork compared to 6.1 days last week and 5.9 days last year.

Cotton planting was two percent completed compared to eight percent last year. Rice planting was about 51 percent completed compared to 30 percent last year. About 14 percent of the acreage was up to a stand. Corn was 51 percent planted compared to 49 percent last year and 24 percent for the average. About 25 percent of the acreage was up to a stand compared to 24 percent in 1977. The crop was in good to fair condition.

Winter wheat was 70 percent jointing and three percent headed, compared to 91 percent jointing and 20 percent headed last year. Oats were 67 percent jointing and four percent headed compared to 86 percent jointing and 26 percent headed last year. Both crops were in good to fair condition. About 77 percent of the acreage intended for spring planted crops had been plowed compared to 76 percent in 1977. Livestock and pastures were in good to fair condition. Peaches were in good to fair condition.

"COMMENTS"

TUNICA CO. "The rain on Tuesday was near perfect to settle loose prepared seedbeds. Cotton planting will begin next week."

PONTOTOC CO. "Received a much needed rain this week. Farmers in high gear with farming activities. Corn planting well under way."

YAZOO CO. "The majority of corn is up to a stand and this week's rain will help get it growing. Most cotton producers were waiting for the rain to settle the bed before planting. If next week is clear and warm, cotton planters will be going full force."

ADAMS CO. "A good rain in the middle of the week was welcomed by everyone - farmers, cattlemen, and gardeners alike."

LAMAR CO. "Farming should pick up now that it has rained. We really needed it."

LAUDERDALE CO. "Rain was a welcomed 'treat'. Lots of field activity since the rain. Watermelon and cantaloupes are being planted."

Silage storage facilities now

ok for CCC loan

Hancock County producers can now obtain Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loans to build high-moisture forage and silage storage facilities on their farm and to remodel existing storage structures, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. The action is part of a program to help farmers build needed storage structures.

Previously, loans were available only for construction of new structures for high moisture grain or grain silage, and dry grain.

The loans will benefit dairymen and livestock producers who need storage for grass silage, and also grain producers with storage facilities that need modification and remodeling to increase capacity and efficiency, according to ASC officials.

They pointed out that facility loans are secured and borrowers must provide adequate security to protect CCC's interest. During the past year, farm facility loan provisions were broadened and liberalized to help achieve the goals of the grain set-aside and farmer-owned reserve programs.

More information on the farm storage facility loan program may be obtained by contacting the ASCS office, Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office, Poplarville, MS., telephone 795-4932.

FIRST SUMMER TERM

State offers home course on industry

Mississippians who want to better understand the economic development process and help their local communities with industrial development programs are urged to participate in a Community Industrial Development Course offered by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

According to Dr. Thomas Loftin, leader, MCES Community Development Department, the course is designed especially for personnel from Planning and Development district, members of industrial committees, chambers of commerce and local government officials, including mayors.

The 10-week correspondence course will begin May 2 at Pontotoc. The series of meetings will be held at 11 different locations throughout the state, including Pontotoc, Booneville, Stoneville, Senatobia, Jackson, Decatur, Grenada, Mississippi State University, Gulfport, Ellisville and Summit.

Interested persons should contact their local county Extension agents for more information regarding the study course being taught in their area.

Each multi-county area will have an organizational meeting, with follow-up seminars scheduled after the groups complete Part I and Part II of the 10-week non-credit self-study course, says Dr. Loftin. Lessons plans are divided into two main topics: "Understanding Industrial Development" and "Practicing Industrial Development."

The course contains 19 lessons which cover industrial development concepts, problems and needs.

A $20 fee will cover the cost of two meals, textbook and other direct costs associated with the seminars.

Agriculture water pollution control is meeting subject

The first draft of a statewide plan to reduce non-point pollution from agricultural sources will be presented at a public meeting 7 p.m. Thursday, April 27, at the Hancock North Central School, according to John W. Smith, county agent.

"The plan to be presented was prepared as required by Public Law 92-500 enacted by the U. S. Congress in 1977."

"Referred to as the 208

Water Quality Management Plan, this plan pertains to pollution from agricultural land such as crop land, pasture land, idle and gullied land, small streams and dirt and gravel county roads. Such areas are called non-point sources of water pollution.

"The purpose of this meeting is to give local leaders and the general public in our area an opportunity to review the plan and add their comments.

"Comments from the meeting will be recorded and considered at a later date when final drafts of the plan are being formulated and submitted to Governor Cliff Finch," Smith explained.

Each state has been asked to develop a plan to reach goals set forth in the bill. The plan that will be presented proposes an entirely voluntary program of stopping pollution. No regulations are proposed. Each land user will be offered suggestions for best improvement practices to conserve soil and clean up his water. However, it is likely that if the state is not able to make acceptable progress on a voluntary basis, the Environmental Protection Agency may implement a regulated program, Smith indicated.

He said the Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission was designated by Governor Cliff Finch as the agency to develop this plan and will be in charge of its presentation at the meeting.

Program will include: summary of the 208 Plan, a visual presentation on the 208 Program, how best management practices fit into a conservation plan, and a question and answer session.

"This plan could have far-reaching effects on landowners in Hancock County. I urge every landowner in the county to attend the meeting so they may learn first-hand what is being proposed," Smith said.

Cattle fly count up as temperatures rise

As temperatures begin to approach the 60 to 70 degree range, fly activity will increase on cattle.

"More notable among these flies will be the horn fly," reports Dr. James Jarrett, entomologist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "These flies undergo four different stages of development: egg, larvae, pupa, and adult."

The adult stage is spent on the animal except for brief periods when females leave the animal to deposit eggs in fresh manure. The eggs will hatch in a short period of time into small, legless maggots or larvae. These larvae feed in the manure for five to six days before pupating either in the manure or in the soil directly beneath the manure.

There may be as many as six to eight generations a year in Mississippi, according to Dr. Jarrett. The last generation will overwinter as a pupa and will start emerging as flies in the next two to four weeks.

Horn flies are commonly found along the top line of the animal and down the front shoulders. During midday the insects may move to the underside of the animal to escape the hot sun. The adults feed by piercing the skin and withdrawing blood from the host animal.

During feeding, they may take up to 20 to 30 blood meals per day. Irritations and blood loss associated with these flies can cause reduced weight gains of 0.3 to 0.5 pounds per day. Research indicates that it only takes 50 or more flies per animal for the fly population to be considered of economic importance.

"This is considerably below the number of flies found on cattle in Mississippi in uncontrolled situations. It is not uncommon to find 600 to 800 flies per animal in these situations," reports the specialist.

The face fly is another fly which attacks cattle in the northern two-thirds of the state. This fly goes through a developmental cycle very similar to the horn fly. However, adults do not remain on the animal, nor do they feed on blood as do the horn flies. The adult face fly will fly to the animal from resting places in the pasture and feed on secretions from the eyes and on milk accumulated on the muzzles of nursing calves. These flies have also been observed around wounds on cattle.

The fly is a manure breeder; however, it does not pupate in or under the manure as do horn flies. The larvae prefer to crawl some distance from the manure to a suitable moisture zone for pupation. This habit worked against the fly during the hot, dry weather of last summer. The larvae remained exposed for longer periods and larval mortality was higher because of dryness and predation from insects such as ground beetles and ants.

The increased larval mortality helped in two ways. First, it lowered adult populations during the latter part of June, with fly numbers never reaching the levels that they had during May. Second, the low adult population resulted in a reduction in the number of flies entering overwintering sites. This will be helpful in early season control this year.

Feeding habits of this fly cause extreme irritation to the animal while it is trying to feed and irritations to the membranes of the animal's eye. There is also an increase in the incidence of pink eye associated with increased numbers of face flies.

These pests can be controlled or suppressed with a number of insecticides. Apply these materials as dusts, sprays, or used on back rubbers. If the face fly is a problem, it is best if dust bags or back rubbers are placed when the animal is forced to use the devices at least once a day.

For a complete list of these materials, contact your county agent for publications concerning livestock parasite control.

WHY CAN'T YOU?

Why can't you enter the 4-H public speaking contest? Why can't you stand before a group and express your ideas in a clear way? Why can't you try out for the team or be a part of the chorus or drama team? You can!

You can do the things you would like to do when you stop defeating yourself. You defeat yourself when you tell yourself, "I can't," "I'm scared to death to do that," "Everyone will laugh at me." Each of these is a false statement. What makes them false?

1. You live in a free country where you can try anything you wish to try. The choice is yours.

2. What you tell yourself about the situation may scare you, but the experience will not cause your death.

3. Someone might laugh at you, but in all probability everyone would not.

The next time you have an opportunity to speak before a group and the "I Can't" demon starts to tell you negative statements, try this strategy:

1. It is not true that I can't do this. The truth is that I feel afraid to try. I can if I will.

2. Even though I feel afraid to try, I know that I'm not really in danger. I talk to people all the time and nothing terrible has happened before.

After all, a group is only a collection of individual people, and I'm not afraid to talk to one person at a time.

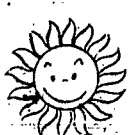

3. Someone could laugh at me, but probably no one would. If they should, that's their problem. It would only show their bad manners and would not be a bad reflection on me.

Keep telling yourself positive statements and practicing "I can if I will" behaviors. Your county 4-H youth agent can direct you to many interesting and exciting experiences in 4-H projects and activities where you can practice positive thinking and actions.

State Weather Projection

The National Weather Service at Stoneville is calling for below median rainfall and above normal temperatures until mid-May, according to a report released today by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Rainfall for this time of year is pretty evenly distributed across the state, with totals ranging from about four inches in the south to four and one-half inches in the north. This year, most areas will receive less than their normal amounts.

Warmer-than-normal temperatures are forecast the first few days of the period, but a cool spell is expected in the northern half of the state April 19-23. By mid-May, readings in the mid-to-upper 80s will be common with 90s occurring in some locations, according to the Weather Service.

Soil moisture is generally adequate throughout the state. Rice planting is nearing completion, and flushing might be needed in the south Delta where rain has been scarce.

KNEIVEL ON HARD TIMES

Stuntman Evel Knievel, just completing a six-month jail term for beating his former publicity agent with a baseball bat, has written that he is down to his last yacht and has only two homes left. From a fleet of 16 boats, including three yachts, valued at $5 million, Knievel sold all but three speed boats and an 80-foot yacht. "If the Evel Knievel toys, bicycles, and pinball machines had not grossed over $180 million I would be in tough financial shape," he said.

In Jesus one will find life is worth living because we can commune with God. We can aspire toward his likeness, reach beyond our grasp to have this peace which passes all understanding. Without Jesus we are only existing. To miss being a part of "the Body of Christ" is like to have utter failure. If your life is a failure and you only exist why not right now, let God light a flame in your heart and soul? Then, keep walking with God and watch the flicker grow into a great fire. In Jesus there is no loneliness and no aloneness - only peace and joy in the Holy Ghost.

Baypoundsrivals in two-day spree

In a two day rally on the road, the Bay High Tigers crushed Vancleave, 10-1, Tuesday, then stormed back Wednesday to demolish St. John, 16-3, in four innings.

Frank Henry, upping his record to 8-3, took the mound for the Tigers against Vancleave, giving up two hits. He struck out six and walked three in five innings. Freshman David Strong took over for the closing innings, striking out two and allowing one hit.

The Tiger varsity offense racked up nine runs in the first inning, then the second string took over for the last four sets. Rickie Hardie and Frank Pernicaro were kept busy with two RBI's apiece for Bay, while Ricky Manieri, Dwayne Lafontaine, and Henry notched one RBI each. Kevin McCaleb, Joe Cabanis, Henry, Hardie and Pernicaro each pounded out a single. Hardie was taken out of the game after being hit on the elbow by a pitch after two turns at bat.

Lafontaine, on the mound throughout the four inning St. John game, surrendered five hits, struck out three and walked two. St. John scored three runs on Tiger errors in the third and fourth innings.

The varsity Tigers, in the game for the first two innings, socked nine scores in the first and tallied five in the second. McCaleb, Bay's third baseman, got three RBI's and hit two doubles while Hardie, recovered from his slight injury of the day before, notched two RBI's and a single. Henry, in three turns at bat, hit three singles and got one RBI. Lafontaine took the plate for a single and an RBI, as did first baseman Pernicaro.

Donald Ginn, in the batting order for Pernicaro, stroked a single in his only time at bat. Davy Smith also hit a single in one trip to the plate.

Twenty Tigers played in the game against St. John.

Wheat grazing eligible for deficiency $'s

Hancock County producers in the wheat program who graze wheat planted for harvest as grain, or cut it for green chop, hay or silage, may receive a payment, under a recently announced provision of the 1978 program.

The payment will be equal to the higher of the 1978 deficiency rate or fifty cents times the established yield and the acres for payment, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) office.

Acres for payment are limited to the larger of 50 acres or 40 percent of the total acreage of barley, corn, grain sorghum, upland cotton and wheat intended for harvest in 1978, not to exceed the wheat acreage.

ASCS said the acres for payment cannot be increased after signup, and will be reduced if the acreage designated for grazing and hay is less.

Designated acreage must be protected from erosion. Other forage crops, except corn and grain sorghum, may follow the wheat for grazing and hay, but not for grain, seed, or lint. Farmers should visit the local ASCS office (Hancock-Pearl River ASCS Office) or call 795-4932 for additional information.

PROMOTED: D.L. Jeffcoat has been promoted to Western Division Vice President of the Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee area for T.G. and Y. Stores. Jeffcoat operated from the Bay St. Louis T.G. and Y. store as manager-supervisor of the Gulfport area in 1968, prior to his being named supervisor, then district manager of that area. He transferred to Mobile, Ala. as district manager in 1975, and will retain his office in that location while serving in his new position.

Registration is Our topic to GOP women

Henry Otis, circuit clerk, Hancock County, spoke to the county's Republican Women on Thursday, at their luncheon meeting.

His topic was registration for upcoming Democratic and Republican primaries for senate. Otis said the deadline for registration to vote in the June 6 primaries is May 6, or one month prior to the election.

Also, he said, persons who will be 18 years or older by the November general election date should register at the courthouse as soon as possible.
